2. How far can I walk? As far as you want and feel comfortable, but know your limits and listen to your body.
3. How long is the whole recovery process? You should be to participate in the majority of daily activities by 6 weeks. Typical return to sport is within 3-6 months. You will keep improving for up to 1 year.

5. How long will I be going to physical therapy? After 6 weeks, it is ok to stop physical therapy once you feel you are no longer benefiting, and you can maintain your home exercise program.
6. When can I travel? Flying is not recommended until 6 weeks after surgery. Sooner, on a case-by-case basis.
7. Do I need any documents for TSA/airport security? A card or note from your physician is no longer required. If you have a metal implant, simply inform the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) officer before screening begins that you've had a hip replacement. Telling the TSA officer or showing this card will not exempt a passenger from the screening, but instead you will be going through a body scanner or pat down.
